

READ AND RUN.

The Holiday Season appears to engross popular attention, and our streets are thronged with those who are making their generous presents for Christmas.

The Charlestown double murder and suicide furnished a fair, but unpleasant, illustration of the mortal state of feeling that exists among the houses where the deeds of blood have been committed.

A decision of the U. S. Supreme Court has been rendered, number and cause and heavy, light and the greatest difficulty of country and town. They were followed by a bad market at home early in the large receipts of cotton into which it was forced to go, and by the sale of their income.

The sudden death of Prof. Agassiz calls forth much sorrow and regret.

Rev. Mr. Cheney, of Chicago, has at length been ordained a member of the Reformed Protestant Church.

The Secretary of the Treasury is forced to confess that the concern over which he presides is bankrupt; the losses are larger by far than the income.

The sudden death of Prof. Agassiz calls forth much sorrow and regret.

From that time on, the price of cotton was to fall, and the price of the cotton market was to rise.

It will be seen that the price of cotton has been steadily rising since the date of Prof. Agassiz's death.

There are many expectations that the price of cotton will rise again.

Manufacturers are steadily looking up and rising in full time again.

The market does not seem to fall off yet, but maintains itself at its usual frugal standard.

The House did not delay in its act of voting four motions of censure for the recent disastrous acts of the Navy Department.

Wreaths and tokens are getting a little more numerous, but the sales have not yet been made over at Cambridge, which they cannot tell from the usual article of bovine manufacture.

The founder of the Ville d'Avray is an old man, whose name would add to the riches of any country.

Said Rev. Mr. Ware, in his last Sunday's

"sermon": "Creation is not order alone, but life."

The Secretary of State, so called, just received $1,000,000 in simple provi-tion for the substitution of compound interest notes for legal tender and fractional currency.

There are strong expectations that Livingstone, who has last resolved to be with him, will be in Boston in January.

England within a month. He would be in London within a week.
